

ARMED ELECTION IN CUBA PASSES QUIETLY

Expected Disorder at the Polls Fails Absolutely to Materialize.

MENOCAL PROBABLY WINS

Conservatives Carry Camaguey and Matanzas, and Havana Is in Doubt.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. HAVANA, Nov. 1.—The Cuban Presidential election held today passed off quietly. There were no important disturbances anywhere.

The returns are coming in slowly. Both sides are claiming the victory, but it seems certain that the Conservatives, whose candidate is Gen. Mario Menocal, have won Camaguey and Matanzas provinces. The province of Havana is still doubtful and Oriente and Pinar del Rio are still unknown quantities.

Hugh Gibson, the secretary of the American Legation, tonight called on Senor Sangulley, the Secretary of State and acting Secretary of the Interior, who is managing the elections. Senor Sangulley told Secretary Gibson that affairs are very quiet and very orderly all over the island.

The general result of the elections is not known as yet.

The city of Havana looks like a military camp, there being 3,000 soldiers of infantry and cavalry patrolling the streets. One notable feature of the day was the perfect good nature prevailing throughout the city, partisans of both parties meeting for a friendly chat and betting even money on the result.

Secretary of State Sangulley told The Sun correspondent late tonight that although no definite result will be known until tomorrow all six provinces seem "inclining to the Conservatives."

Senor Sangulley is a strong Liberal, which makes such admission by him practically to confirm a Conservative victory, with Gen. Menocal elected to succeed President Gomez. Vice-President Zayas was the Liberal candidate. Chances of a revolution growing out of the result of the election are negligible, as Gen. Menocal has with him Gen. Montegudo, the commanding General of the armed forces, and the veterans, who constitute the most important element.

Gen. Zayas would scarcely care to revolt against such odds, but the fact that seven months will elapse before the inauguration of the new President on May 20, 1913, and the certainty that the present grafters will try to make a big cleanup in the meanwhile present possibilities of trouble. On the other hand the elections are going off without a single outbreak anywhere, and this suggests that the Cubans have come to the realization that they must prove their fitness for self-government by a peaceful use of the suffrage.

There was trouble in the campaign which preceded the election ever since October 6, when the Conservatives charged that President Gomez was using the whole of the Government machinery to help Senor Zayas, the Liberal candidate, and at present the Vice-President. The Liberals made the counter-charge that Gen. Montegudo, the commander of the armed forces, was using the troops in favor of Gen. Menocal. Several Liberal papers, claiming a majority of votes for their party, have threatened a revolution if defeated at the polls.

The Cuban people, aroused by the charges, began to take matters into their own hands. Wherever partisans assembled there were rioting and fighting. Shots were fired in several of the outbreaks. Senor Ferrera, the Speaker of the House, who has been working for the election of Senor Zayas, barely escaped with his life while campaigning in Cienfuegos. Disorders occurred all over the island. On October 25 the most serious fight of the campaign took place in Havana. One man was killed and twenty were injured.

The Conservatives set up a cry of police discrimination, as no Liberals were arrested. Further rioting was threatened, but the Conservatives were released.

FEAR FOR MISSING AERONAUTS.

Americans in Gordon Bennett Race May Have Been Drowned.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Fear is entertained here that John Wats and Arthur T. Atherholt, the American entrants for the Gordon Bennett balloon cup, have lost their lives in an attempt to cross the Baltic Sea. A delayed despatch from Stralsund says that on October 28 a balloon was sighted high above the Baltic, traveling in a seaward direction. This is now supposed to be the Duesseldorf, the balloon the Americans used after their own craft, the Kansas City II, exploded.

No news has been received from the Americans since they started last Sunday from Stuttgart in the international race. Telegrams have been sent out in all directions, but no definite word of the men has been received. There is the slight chance that they landed in a remote part of Russia and the news has been delayed. The French balloon, the de France, landed in Russia, and the news it sent was delayed sixty hours.

If the balloon sighted from Stralsund was the Duesseldorf it would have been in the air for twenty-four hours and much of the sand used as ballast would have been thrown overboard. A voyage over water without a full supply of ballast is considered very dangerous, as the balloonists have no means by which they can keep their craft up when the cold night air contracts the gas in the bag.

Irish Rioters Released and Then Are Rearrested.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. BELFAST, Nov. 1.—Seventeen men were arraigned this morning on charges connected with the recent riots. The Crown Prosecutor entered a nolle prosequi and the men were released.

There was much astonishment tonight when warrants were issued to rearrest the men on the same charge.

of the Orient Railway that comes down the valley direct to the heart of the Ottoman capital.

Demotica is also said to have fallen to the Bulgarians. This town is one of the last squares upon which the Bulgarian players must place their men before Adrianople falls.

Eyewitnesses are coming here with details of last week's fighting in and around Adrianople and Kirk Kilisseh. They tell how a panic ran all along the Turkish lines, as they saw the Bulgarians coming on contemptuous of death. They tell how, although at first the soldiers of the Sultan fought grimly, this fear finally gripped them, and they wavered and ran. Their own officers rode through the mob with sabres flashing, cursing their men and ordering them to turn. At first it was the fat of the sabres that came down on the shoulders of the running terror-stricken men, but in a moment they were using the edge.

Into this welter, and particularly into the ranks of the raw Asiatic levies, rode the well trained Bulgarian cavalrymen cutting out detachments of the milling crowd, pistoling those who offered resistance and finally sending entire regiments helter skelter. The Bulgarian artillery, in the meantime, was crashing shells into the regular Turkish troops who stood their ground with the glint of officers' sabres behind them. They fell on the field of battle.

It was about this time that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish War Minister, was sending despatches to his capital telling of the success of the Ottoman troops.

TO SAFEGUARD CHRISTIANS.

American, Belgian and Rumanian Ministers at Porte Confer.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 2.—The American, Belgian and Rumanian Ministers accredited to the Porte, met last night to adopt measures for safeguarding the nationals of the United States, Belgium and Rumania in the event of a fanatic movement against the Christians.

Kiamil Pasha, the Grand Vizier, has assured the foreign diplomats that such an attempt is out of question, but nevertheless he has ordered 5,000 foot and horse troops to patrol the streets to protect the foreigners from attack.

NO MAIL IN BALKAN STATES.

War Destroys Service, According to Report to Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—It was announced at the Post Office Department this afternoon that mail service between Turkey, Bulgaria and Serbia had ceased on account of the disturbed conditions resulting from the war against Turkey.

MOVEMENTS OF DIPLOMACY.

France Takes Initiative, but Little Yet Accomplished.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. PARIS, Nov. 1.—France is taking the initiative toward ending the Balkan troubles. High officials of the Balkan States have been asked to come to this capital for conferences. From the Bulgarians comes word that if Turkey desires to talk about peace, they must come first to the allies. It was intimated that the Powers would not be acceptable to the belligerent little peoples as mediators.

Much will depend upon the expected battle at Tehtalida, twenty-five miles outside of Constantinople, near the gates of which Bulgarian artillery is said to be getting into position. The dash of the Bulgarians and the completeness of their success so far seems to have bewildered the diplomats.

The Austrians are said to look with the deepest anxiety upon the present situation and all hands agree that the Powers have delayed too long. Should the Bulgarians continue their march and occupy Constantinople any program of division drawn up now by the Powers would receive little attention presumably from the allies. If trouble comes from an overwhelming Turkish defeat it will come first from Vienna and then in the form of armed intervention. Then of course Russia, who will benefit from the upbuilding of a strong federation of States in the Near East, will have her say.

Premier Poincaré was in a continuous conference with the Ambassadors of the Powers here to-day.

GRANADA WOMEN SEND THANKS TO UNCLE SAM

Declare His Marines Saved Them From Menace of Nicaraguan Conflict.

LETTER TO SOUTHERLAND

Present Rear Admiral With Flowers Grown in Their Home Gardens.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A grateful tribute to Rear Admiral W. H. Southernland and the American forces in Nicaragua tendered to the American commander in chief by the women of Granada was made public at the State Department to-day. The women wrote the Admiral a letter expressing their gratitude to him and his men for having relieved the inhabitants of the city of Granada from frightful menace from the rebels. The letter was accompanied by a bouquet of flowers. After reciting the fact that recurring conflicts in Nicaragua have brought sadness to the country, the letter declares:

"These conflicts have been each day more stubborn and bloody, the bitterness each day greater and the loss each time more irreparable, bringing about a division so deep in the Nicaraguan family that the most drastic elements predominated in this city, and it fell to our lot to live in a state of horror and fright, in which the mother, the daughter, the wife and the sister saw themselves each moment threatened with the loss of all they held most dear and of their subsistence of the most necessary things even for the life of children, or possibly the loss of their own honor."

"It is for this, seeing the prolongation of the recent conflict, which was growing fiercer each day, that we celebrated with enthusiasm your arrival on the shores of Nicaragua as an omen that soon our ills would cease. We have given with wonderful rapidity the peace and tranquility that we so much longed for."

"The judgment and prudence with which you have handled the situation of the United States, so wise, so powerful, will bring to us permanently the benefits which all her sons enjoy throughout all her vast and peaceful domain."

"Already we have enjoyed for these few days real peace and tranquility with the stay of the American forces in our midst. It is for us to express the desire that our elder sister—the great republic of the United States—so wise, so powerful, will bring to us permanently the benefits which all her sons enjoy throughout all her vast and peaceful domain."

MURDER MYSTERY IN PARIS.

American Finds Clue to Mother's Death 12 Years Ago.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun. PARIS, Nov. 1.—A 10-day search for the authentic of a story which reads more like the first chapter of a detective thriller than a statement of facts. It concerns an American mother and her daughter whose names Gil Blas has yet not been allowed to give, but the paper asserts that they are well known members of society.

The story refers to the daughter as formerly Miss G. H. B. She was born in Paris from the extreme East late at night on the eve of the opening of the 1900 Paris exposition. They went to a large hotel. The daughter in the morning knocked at her mother's door. She received no reply and made inquiries of the chambermaid as to her mother's whereabouts. The chambermaid insisted that the daughter arrived at the hotel alone, and the entire hotel staff made similar assertions. The daughter, who was almost distracted, made appeals to the American Embassy and the police to search for her mother, but her efforts were without effect.

The daughter, heartbroken, then returned to America. She was visiting Biarritz a week ago and now says that while there she overheard three men who were seated in the hotel salon discussing the mysteries of the great capitals. One of them told a story which she recognized as her own. The speaker described the sudden death of an American woman in a Paris hotel at 2 o'clock in the morning. The doctors diagnosed the cause of death as plague. As the publicity of the case on the eve of the opening of the exposition meant a catastrophe the Minister of the Interior instructed the Prefect of Police to seize the woman's baggage, burn it with the body, disinfect the room and bind all the hotel servants who had seen the woman to deny her existence.

The daughter of the woman whose name has not been able to get confirmation of the story, but is determined to make a thorough investigation before she returns to America.

SUES TRUST FOR $1,000,000.

Pival Powder Co. Asks Damages for Conspiracy Under Sherman Law.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 1.—In a suit filed against the du Pont Powder Company in the United States Court here this afternoon, the Buckeye Powder Company of Peoria, Ill., accuses the du Ponts of conspiring to suppress the Buckeye company by the use of bribery and manufacturing secrets and claims damages of $1,119,957.82.

The complaint alleges that the du Pont company conspired to destroy the business of the Buckeye company by degrading the value and quality of the Buckeye powder and that the du Pont firm engaged spies to work at Peoria for the purpose of securing the secrets of the du Ponts. It also alleges that the du Ponts are making Buckeye powder, thus securing control of 95 per cent. of the powder business of the United States.

SENDS BIBLES TO THE GUNMEN.

Harburger Forwards Testaments Mailed for Jack Rose Et Al.

A mail package that arrived yesterday afternoon addressed "Care of Sheriff Harburger, Tombs Prison, New York City," wasn't large enough to contain an entire Bible, so Mr. Harburger cut the string. He found inside six small Testaments.

On the flyleaf of each was written a name, and the six names were Bridget Webber, Louis Rosenberg, Harry Horowitz, Jack Rose, Phil Davidson and Samuel Schepps.

In each Bible was a leaflet entitled "A Search for Atoning Blood," which purported to be the account of how a Jew in San Francisco became a Christian. The name of Thomas H. Chalmers, 63 Central place, Brooklyn, was printed on the leaflet. To Chalmers Mayor Gaynor addressed a caustic letter some months ago when Chalmers wrote for permission to hold meetings to convert Hebrews to Christianity.

Passages in each Testament were marked. One was the 27th chapter of St. Matthew, containing an account of the crucifixion; one was St. Luke, 15th chapter, the parables of the lost sheep, the pieces of silver and the prodigal son; another was the Second Epistle to the Corinthians, dealing with the decline of Judaism, and the last was chapter 11 of the Epistle to the Hebrews, relating to the Passover.

Sheriff Harburger sent the Testaments to the Tombs with the request that they be distributed to the persons to whom they were addressed and that those intended for guests of the West Side prison be sent on there.

TOOK LANDLADY'S GEMS AND BEAT HER, SHE SAYS

Man Accused of Hiding Until Children Were Gone, Then Making Attack.

Mrs. Ethel Schneider, who lives with her six children on the fourth floor of 147 Stanton street, testified before Magistrate Harris in the Essex Market court yesterday that Max Hoffer, an operator for the Royal Dress Company at 138 West Seventeenth street, had attacked her Thursday morning while alone in her apartment and had taken two diamond earrings worth $400 and $30 in cash.

Detective James J. Brennan of the Central Office caught Hoffer Thursday night as he was leaving 147 Stanton street. Hoffer was held without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Schneider alleges that Hoffer has been a boarder in her family for a year and that on Thursday morning he hid under the bed in his room until her six children had gone to work. He then came out with a handkerchief over the lower part of his face, struck her in the head and threw her to the floor and took the earrings and the money.

Mrs. Fanny Weinstein, who lives on the same floor with Mrs. Schneider, testified that she ran to the Schneider apartment when she heard Mrs. Schneider calling for help. She told Magistrate Harris that she saw a man bending over Mrs. Schneider and saw him a minute later go down a fire escape.

CLOWN KILLED SOPHIA SINGER.

Actress Confesses Husband Murdered Girl to Get Money.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Under a rapid fire of questions by detectives Lillian Beatrice Ryall-Conway, a burlesque actress, broke down this afternoon and confessed that her husband, Charles Conway, murdered his wife Sophia G. Singer of Baltimore last Monday night in a boarding house in Indiana avenue. Robbery was the motive. But murder was not intended. The "wooden footed clown" of circus fame merely intended to stun the girl so that she could raise no outcry while Mrs. Conway and her husband made their escape, the woman told the police.

That wife and her husband have not been told to Conway, who is being kept in solitary confinement. The police believe he will weaken and tell the whole story of the crime himself.

Mrs. Conway told the police that she was not an actual witness to the slaying, but told of hearing a scuffle between her husband and Miss Singer and seeing Miss Singer's body on the bed in the bedroom just before they fled. She says her husband told her at that time that the girl was merely unconscious, and that they would let her lie before she recovered.

In her statement the woman said: "Sophie Singer wrote to me at Muncie, Ind., from Baltimore, to come to Chicago and meet her. She, William Warthen, my husband and I finally met in Chicago. We rented three rooms at 329 Indiana avenue, consisting of two bedrooms and one dining room. My husband and I got there in the morning and left the same night."

Sophie and Conway got into a quarrel in Conway's bedroom. I left the bedroom and went into the dining room. Sophie was in her stocking feet and had her shoes in her hand.

She came into the room and sat on the bed to put on her shoes. In the meantime I had left the room. I was one of the room mates. When I returned I saw Sophie lying on the bed.

My husband said: "We'd better leave here; she's unconscious."

Mrs. Conway said that while she knew her husband had no money before the murder happened he had $35 after they left the house by a rear staircase and fled.

WYCKOFF BACK, PENITENT.

Says He Will Replace Criticized Acts of Woodhaven Bank.

William F. Wyckoff, the missing president of the Woodhaven Bank in Queens Borough, returned to his home last night from Baton Rouge, La., and issued the following statement: "When I returned home shocked and humiliated beyond expression over the report of the occurrences of the last few weeks, I am particularly aggrieved over the closing of the Woodhaven Bank, which has been the price not only of myself but of my entire family."

I have large resources and have no doubt that just as soon as I can recover sufficient assurance to meet the public I shall be able not only to convince the Banking Department that the bank is solvent, but shall replace all criticized assets with satisfactory ones.

Deputy Superintendent Quinn said yesterday that there had been no meeting of the directors since the bank was closed. He would neither deny nor affirm the report that discrepancies had been found in the books.

As far as depositors' accounts were concerned Mr. Quinn found that the bank was in a satisfactory condition. He would not say whether the bank would be reopened.

MCINTYRE AND HART OUT OF BECKER CASE

Only Waiting for New Counsel to Be Named to Withdraw Formally.

"FAGGED OUT," THEY SAID

Whitman Hears of Four Chicago Gunmen Coming Here at 3 P. M. to Kill Him.

A positive statement came from an authoritative source yesterday that John P. McIntyre and John W. Hart, counsel for Lieut. Becker, ceased their active participation in the Becker case upon the sentence of the former policeman to the electric chair for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Neither Mr. McIntyre nor Mr. Hart, the statement of yesterday continued, will take part in any appeal which Becker contemplates bringing before a higher court. Lawyers McIntyre and Hart's present position in the case, it was learned, is that they "are merely waiting to be superseded by new counsel," and in the meantime are doing nothing and will have nothing further to do in the Becker case.

Last Tuesday, the day before Becker was sentenced, Mr. Hart, while visiting Becker at the Tombs, said first to have told the former policeman that it would be best for all concerned if the convicted man engaged fresh counsel to prepare and handle his case before the Court of Appeals. Mr. Hart, it was further learned, drew Becker's attention to the fact that Messrs. McIntyre and Hart had worked night and day on the Rosenthal defense for months, that they both were fagged out, and that "fresh blood" could wisely be injected into the legal force that is to try for a Court of Appeals reversal.

Despite this reliable information that McIntyre and Hart are merely waiting inactively to be replaced and intend to do nothing in the matter in the future, Lawyer Louis J. Grant, the latest addition to the Becker counsel, expressed the opinion yesterday afternoon that Mr. McIntyre at least will participate in the preparation of an appeal.

The story still persisted yesterday that Alton B. Parker is to be Becker's chief counsel, but efforts to see Mr. Parker about the story were unsuccessful.

Although District Attorney Whitman, like his predecessors in similar circumstances, has paid little or no attention to the three score or more threatening letters which he has received since Rosenthal was murdered, Detective Al Thomas, attached to the District Attorney's office, is taking enough stock in one threatening letter which the detective had with him yesterday to go up to the Grand Central Station with a squad of detectives to-day and be on the lookout for "4 Gunmen" who, according to the letter the detective carries, are due from Chicago at 3 P. M. to kill Mr. Whitman.

Here is a verbatim copy of the letter in Thomas's possession, except that the number in Christie street, which is written in the letter, is here suppressed:

NEW YORK, October 20, 1912.

DEAR SIR:—MR. WHITMAN: Just a few lines to let you know that there is a Gunmen coming over here from Chicago on Friday and each one of them is going to get $1,000 Dollars to put you out of the way, now, Mr. Whitman, as I had fallen out with the men I thought I would get even on them by letting you know so you can be on the lookout after them. Saturday, 3 o'clock in the afternoon, they will arrive at the Grand Central Station one of the men one ear missing, his left one if you see such a man walking with 2 o'clock just from the front. Please don't let them see you. I will find them, now I will let you know where we are to meet after they get here we are supposed to go over to—Christie St. City an Opium den and frame everything up there. Christie St. Room 4 first floor front. Please don't raid the Opium den as I am the Boss, and for tipping you off I want you, to let me run as a reward. Now you pay special attention to this letter as it is strictly on the level. Butch is my nickname. Good luck to you.

"This is the first threatening letter that goes into details." Detective Thomas argued with those in the District Attorney's office who were inclined to treat the letter lightly, "and when it gives dates and an address and the exact hour and details like that it looks to me that some attention ought to be paid to it."

So Thomas and his squad this afternoon will pay enough attention to the warning letter to be on the watch for a one armed gunman with three companions. Furthermore, the letter writer's wishes about his "Opium joint" at a given number in Christie street were respected by the detectives to the extent of making no investigation of the "Christie street house, at least until after the "four gunmen" are supposed to arrive. Mr. Whitman is said to be firm in his belief that those who really plot murder do not warn their victim beforehand as the anonymous writers of threatening letters have been doing in his case.

One story that came out of the Criminal Courts Building yesterday afternoon had it that subpoena has been issued for an uptown inspector to come to the building and explain reports that the inspector of police and others are active in trying to bring the prosecutions in the Rosenthal case to an end with the conviction of Becker. These efforts include details such as an alleged attempt on the part of the inspector to discredit Jack Rose, Bridget Webber and Harry Vallon as witnesses for the State, and an attempt by the inspector to keep Rachel Brown (Rachel Braunstein), one time gambling partner of Bridget Webber, out of the Tenderloin until Jack Sullivan has taken the stand again and swears that Rose, Webber and Vallon planned some time ago to kill Braunstein. Braunstein, so the inspector and his friends are said to fear, will testify that Sullivan's story is false.

It was said yesterday that not long before Shapiro, chauffeur of the "murder car," confessed recently he was approached in his cell by a messenger from a clique hostile to Mr. Whitman, who offered Shapiro a bribe of $2,000 to keep his tongue silent. The chauffeur is said to have given as his reason for refusing to be silenced that "Whitman said twice he'd send me to the electric chair, and so I turned down the proposition of the bribe, because I knew Whitman could get me into the chair."

It was said yesterday that the prosecution believes that Gyp, Whitey, Lefty and Dago Frank are keeping up their defiant attitude solely because they are being paid to do so.

William J. Ferrick, a mounted police-

the name of Saks on a scarf is a badge of distinction

Make a mental note that we are the people for knitted neckwear of style and quality. In crochet, accordion and fancy weaves, we have solid colors and stripes in abundance. Also, the prices are on the square. They begin modestly at 55c each and call a halt at 3.00 with no loss of humility. Might add, though, that the new open end "Fashionknit" scarfs are shown only at two prices, namely, 2.50 and 3.00. Meanwhile, let's begin at the next paragraph and go down the line.

Here are two remarkable neckwear sales. We therefore suggest that you weed out the distinguished cripples in your neckwear, and get something new. Don't hang on to old scarfs. Change your hopes and your neckwear whenever expedient and profitable. The values in these two sales are exceptionally good, and if you act now, you will be the gainer in scarfs and satisfaction.
